in some cases, the British Indian Regulations have not fixed such a high age for any departments or officers. The period of training required for becoming a qualified Nurse is not very long and it is not clear why it is not possible to get trained nurses less than 25 years of age. If any addition is at all necessary to the age limit in these instances — & this is very doubtful — thirty years may perhaps be fixed. & not 40.

FINAL NOTE.

20 These papers relate to a proposal to extend to 40 years the age limit for admission into the public service of all nurses just as has already been done in the Victoria Hospital. The Senior Surgeon represents that there is difficulty in getting young women as nurses. Indian women not being accustomed to undergo training and seek employment as nurses, the difficulty seems really to exist, especially in the present initial stage.

21 The matter was considered in Council and the Council are of opinion that the proposal may be approved. If this is sanctioned, Article 34 of the Mysore Service Regulation will be suitably amended.
